A Nation of Bankrupts.

[Toronto Corr. Chicago Times.]

You talk about hard times, you who are actually thinking of resuming specie payment, but we in the Queen's Dominion are not only crying to the Lord out of the depths for the abating of the panic, but seriously contemplating the stoppage of specie and all other payments. The other day Mr. I. G. Worts, of the great distilling firm of Gooderham & Worts (worth $5,000,000 clear of all liabilities), made a speech at the board of trade here in which he described Canada as "a nation of bankrupts." He said that in proportion to population there were in 1876, two bankrupts in Canada to one in the United States, and that the total number of failures in the Dominion during last year was within twenty of the whole number in the United Kingdom, which has twenty times our trade. In the Monetary Times of last evening, just 25 failures are chronicled for the week in Ontario and Quebec alone, and standing out grimly on the editorial page is an item to the effect that $3,000 worth of accounts belonging to an Errors' bankrupt have been sold for $25. The report of the Montreal markets in this paper begins: "The numerous failures which are taking place in the city occasion considerable uneasiness and distrust in all branches of trade." Of the Toronto markets it is said: "The general feelings of merchants seem to be reflected by the weather, which is dull, heavy and oppressive." The cities and towns throughout the country are filled with idle mechanics and laborers, and a pauper population of no mean extent already exists in Toronto, Hamilton, London, Ottawa, Montreal and other centers. Those who were tried in the panic of 1857 are unanimous in saying that it was as nothing to the terrible state of affairs now prevailing. The lumber trade has been paralyzed since 1873, and shows no sign of returning life yet. Eighteen hundred and seventy-six was a deplorable year, too, for lake navigation, while the tightness of money rendered trade in every branch next to impossible. We have had three long and dreary years of this paralysis, and while you see (it may be some distance off) the light of a revival, we are getting into thicker every month.

A few days ago, as the President was walking with his son Ulysses, near the White House, a passer-by accosted him and begged a light. The President handed his cigar to the stranger, who, between the whiffs, remarked: "That seems a very pleasant house to live in," to which was made the quaint rejoinder, "Well, it is pretty comfortable," and with a mutual salute they separated.

SILVER MONEY DEMANDED BY THE MEN OF THE WEST.—The Illinois Senate recently passed by a unanimous vote a resolution requesting Congress to restore the coinage of silver dollars. The resolution had previously passed the House, and is therefore the expression of the Legislature of that State. The Chicago Tribune is "satisfied that nineteen-twentieths of the people of Illinois, irrespective of party, desire the silver dollar remonetized and made a full legal tender for everything." We can say the same for the people of Missouri; and it may be said also of the people of Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and indeed all the Western and Southern States. Nevertheless, the House bill for the remonetization of silver, passed nearly two months, slumbers in the Senate. No Western Senator in the interest of his constituents calls it up, and it would seem as though it had not a single friend in the Senate. The session is drawing to a close—only about three weeks of it remain—and if some energetic action in favor of the bill is not shortly taken it will be lost—whereat the British gold combination, whose servant Senator Sherman, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Finance, appears to be, will rejoice.—St. Louis Republican.

A MIRAGE IN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY. On last Saturday morning the few persons who chanced to be on H street about 7:30 o'clock, were treated to a sight not often granted to mankind—that is, a plain view of a town over twenty miles distant, and not visible except on occasions like this. By means of a mirage, the town of Borden was made visible to the citizens of Fresno. The buildings and their color were distinctly and plainly outlined, and seemed but a short distance away. The bluffs of the San Joaquin lying between Fresno and Borden, ten miles distant, and not discernable at other times, loomed up as though but a few yards off, while the trees on the banks of the river could be plainly seen and counted, the sinuous course of the stream traced, and the houses in the village of Sycamore brought to view. It was a scene worth beholding, and as curious as interesting.—Fresno Republican.

A Few Facts for Law Makers.

The State Controller has studied the Bullion tax question thoroughly, and does not advocate a modification. He thinks, on the other hand, that we may have to borrow $200,000 until these taxes are collected. Once collected, as they should be, and the defiant Bonanza Kings will pay costs, and succumb. The law once modified and it will never hold water again.

The "Compromise" (?) was never thought of until the yield of the mines compelled them to pay their just portion of the taxes. Then, having been used to practical exemption, they want to modify. This State needs every cent that will come to her under the present law—then why make all ore $12 per ton? What assurance is there that this compromise will not be contested? Did not the people understand that a modification would be attempted, and did they not solemnly warn and pledge legislators against it? Did not the mine owners promise to pay their taxes one year ago, in case Storey county would lower her rates, and are the cases not now in the Courts? They say that Storey county is in pawn. Who did it? Did the State ask her to do anything that she has not helped Storey to pay for? That county has incurred an expense of $20,000 in the prosecution of these suits. The State appropriated $12,000 to help pay the bill. Then wherefore is the State at large responsible for Storey's financial condition? How do they argue this matter, as a question for Storey county, or for the State of Nevada? The counsel employed by Storey county refused to advise the County Commissioners of Storey county as to the course they ought to pursue in regard to the so called compromise and amendment.

What is the stand taken by the Enterprise upon this question. Does he carry conviction with him, or does he go begging, as for some charitable object? Does he deal with arguments, and bring you facts, or does his baggage consist of pleas, fond hopes, eloquent prophecies, whines and tears? He hopes they will give it "fair" consideration, we hope so too, but not Colonel Fair.

The questions for legislators to answer are these: Don't you believe that the present tax is just and can be collected? Will this reduction benefit residents or non-residents? Having promised your people and party, who is to excuse your breach of faith?

The Surest Way.

Washoe county is looking forward and with reason to the time when she will be one of the first counties in this interior section. The rapid increase in population and taxable property has shown that her location and natural advantages find general appreciation, and we have only to study and improve these advantages in order to win entire success. It requires no argument to show that farming is the backbone of our many resources. It is that support which compels a certain growth and will maintain it and to which all other industries merely give added value and usefulness. It is manifest then that when we help the farmer, we help ourselves, and we think it all important that he should be encouraged to adopt the practice of older communities and look to permanent improvement.

We see by an exchange that the farmers of Minnesota planted last year millions of trees and will continue the process during the present one. This fact looks small in print, but in five years it means a marked increase in the value of Minnesota's land. What we need here in Nevada is tree culture. Not one householder in this county but can cultivate and mature a few of these benefactors to the farm; and if we could only induce people to take this interest in beautifying their homes Washoe county would soon take rank as the most densely populated county in this State. It is a plain proposition that money invested on the farm is saved for your children, and that the enrichment of the soil and planting of trees and flowers is so much added to your own wealth.

We commend the habits of Messrs. Lewis and Smith, of our town, in cultivating and experimenting upon and hope that each vacant lot on its quota of trees and the coming Spring.

AN EXPENSIVE ERROR.—In the case of P. W. Johnson & Co. vs. the Badger M. & M. Co., which was tried in the District Court on Wednesday, and which involved the sum of $2,000 principal and $500 interest, the importance of the word "be" was made apparent to the plaintiff. The suit was brought to foreclose a mortgage given for the above amount. The mortgage was acknowledged before a San Francisco Commissioner of Deeds. The acknowledgment read: "before me personally appeared H. G. Rollins, known to me to be the President of the Badger M. & M. Co., etc." The Court decided that the omission of the word "be" was a fatal defect and that the recording of the mortgage did not give notice to third parties.—Silver State.

John Clerk, the Edinburgh lawyer, and Raeburn, the painter, were great cronies in their younger days, both being poor as church mice. One day Clerk asked Raeburn to dine. On arriving, the latter found the landlady spreading the cloth and setting on the table two dishes, one containing three herring, the other three potatoes. "And is this all?" said Clerk. "All," said the dame. "All! Did I not tell ye, woman," he cried, "that a gentleman was to dine with me, and that ye were to get six herrings and six potatoes?"

A man named Jean de Falasie was hanged in the sixteenth century for a series of murders. To all questions he replied with a song, and on the scaffold, and in the presence of 6,000 persons, he asked and obtained permission to say a few words. Then he begged the throng to join in the chorus of a popular ditty. "There were four asses in a field, nipping the tender grass," which consisted of imitating braying. Then said Jean: "I die happy, because at my last moment I have heard 6,000 asses braying at once and I have no desire to live with such fellow-creatures."

THAT AT THE

—OF—

Isaac Fredrick

YOU can find the largest and most varied assortment of

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

SOVEREIGNS OF INDUSTRY.—Mr. Earle, a former citizen of Nevada, but now a resident of California, came to Reno to-day, and proposes to remain several days with us. He comes for the purpose of organizing a Council of the Sovereigns of Industry. This order is composed of Mechanics and Farmers. None but the laboring classes are eligible to become members. The objects of this laborers' co-operative union are quite evident, and of conceded utility. We need such an order here. Our laboring classes should meet, exchange views, know what is being done by those of their profession elsewhere, and strengthen, encourage and enlighten each other at home. There are social advantages, also, which should not be overlooked. We were not born for hermits, but to enjoy each other's society. What is more profitable and pleasant than to meet as members of a society which binds us together by common interests, that we may mutually benefit each other in the numerous ways which only such associations confer? We have no doubt of Mr. Earle's success in the formation of a "Council" at this place.

DANCING ACADEMY.—Attention to an advertisement in to-day's issue will furnish information to dancers, and those wishing to acquire the art Terpsichorean. Messrs. Scott and Parks, of Nevada City, Cal., have pitched their tent in Reno, and propose to cultivate the dancing community. They have met with uniform success elsewhere, and propose to give their undivided attention to our people. They will organize private classes for gentlemen or ladies, and these classes may be made up as the members shall desire. A soiree will be given each Saturday night, commencing March 3d, where the instruction of the week may find rehearsal, dancing to cease promptly at twelve. Standard music will be furnished for all occasions. A fair trial and no favor is asked.

EPISCOPAL SEMINARY.—This institution is fast earning the bright wishes and sympathies of our people, and winning a name throughout the State. The teachers are working in a quiet, earnest, and thorough manner, and the scholars are unanimous in their regard for the school and zeal for their own improvement. The prospects of the Seminary were never brighter than now, and we make these comments because of many enthusiastic opinions expressed by young ladies now in attendance at the Seminary. Besides these the institution is a source of constant pride to us as the first bona fide attempt of Nevada to provide higher education at home. May the worthy projector, Bishop Whittaker, and his zealous corps of assistants continue to enjoy the full measure of success.

LIVELY.—Our streets to-day presented a lively appearance owing to the presence of many of our honest farmers, who came in to attend the lecture of J. W. A. Wright on co-operation. It is a worthy subject, and Mr. W.'s study of English co-operative unions will no doubt avail much to our own needs. The farmer is now beginning to talk of seeds, shrubs, shoots and tree planting. We counsel him to lay his plans well and try to make his home more attractive and comfortable. That is the surest road to "better times."

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.—There were filed in the clerk's office to-day, articles of incorporation for the Crown Prince Mining Company. The objects of incorporation are to enable the company to extract, reduce and separate precious metals and other minerals from the ores of the Crown Prince, or any other mining ground which the company may acquire. Place of business, Reno. Duration, fifty years. Trustees for first term, Geo. Gertenbach, W. P. VanMeter, J. Muran, John Goll, John B. Fuller.

TO-NIGHT.—A meeting of the Board of Trade was spoken of for to-night in relation to "incorporation." We have not been officially informed in regard to it, but think that in relation to our water power and its use, the Board might obtain some useful hints from Messrs. Wright and Earle, who are now visiting our town.

METHODIST CHURCH.—Rev. C. L. Ewing of Sierra Valley will preach at the Methodist church to-morrow evening. Mr. Ewing will be usual officiate at the morning service.

AGENT.—W. J. Marsh has been authorized by the well known musical firm of Sherman & Hyde, to collect notes for all their instruments on any terms given at their house, including the Weber, Sherman & Hyde and Cottage Grand Pianos, and Standard Organs. He will sell any of these instruments on such easy terms that everybody can buy with a little cash.

Chinese Protective.

The Ancient Order of Gay Hing Instituted in Reno—Its Provisions—Paraphernalia, Etc.

As we passed the Chinese quarter this morning we saw several acres of red rag floating in the breeze, red flags bordered with blue, and red streamers in abundance. All of this gorgeous display floated from the peak of a very small house which had apparently sprung up during the night. Of course we proceeded to cross and examine the Celestials, under the impression that a new place of worship had been established, and that we should see the heathen idols all arranged in the order of their importance. Upon reaching the house we found that a huge chopstick, surmounted by tin ornaments, held the flag, and that the costly inscriptions done in red and gilt, argued much importance for the new enterprise. An interview was finally obtained with the "boss," who had been spending a few dollars' worth of fire-crackers on himself, and we drew from him the following particulars:

The new feature is a Chinese secret society, known as "Gay Hing," and which our informant stated was "alle sam Fry Mason." This is the first and only lodge established in Nevada, and is attended by Mongolians resident in Reno, Virginia, Truckee, Wadsworth and Carson. We enquired whether the little dirty room was sufficient for such a gigantic affair. The answer was "No; heap soon fix'm, make bigger." The flag is a recognized sign of the order, and looks like a huge bandanna with blue trimmings. Pasted about the door are many inscriptions which we did not have time to copy, and inside, behind a rude table which held punk and Chinese lanterns, was a red screen upon the wall, where the "Gay Hing" himself sat when presiding.

This screen was covered with all sorts of grotesque designs and was the only place in the room which had been finished. The cost of admission is $25, and the treats for the crowd—wine or cigars allowed, and sometimes "go China restaurant, heap eat, heap drink." Long Toy is the distinguished head of this chopstickian association, and one black ball excludes a Celestial from membership. The insignia are a spear and a half moon, which are held in sacred trust by the "Gay Hing," who presides at the meetings which vary in length from two hours throughout the night. No women are admitted, as Long remarked "too muchee tell him," and members of the society are protected and made good—if they pay. When a member commits a small offense he is fined an ear, which the Lodge cuts from his head; and when he divulges the secrets (Toy looked wicked when we asked this) "other Chinamen kill 'em dam quick." Traitors are killed with the knife and no questions asked.

The Lodge has nine officers and about forty members. The first meeting in the new hall will be held to-morrow evening. The objects were pretty well stated by the proprietor, who takes in the money: "Make allee man good; some time shootee, some time killee, some time too muchee talkie. I make allee same white man. He pay all right; no man kill him, no man stealie. All man good, when he pay."

Here is a veritable instance of virtue paid for. If a man pays, they make him good; if he backslides, they kill him. White men might try the same process.

PHILOSOPHY.—Filkins is quite a philosopher, and so when he sat down to dinner yesterday we listened. This neighbor spoke of a man who was without brains but always kept his hair in shape. "Yes," said F., "hair oil often covers a vacuum." As he received his plate and noticed that his beef was selected at random, Filkins remarked that "the world had many heroes, but not many men who could help roast beef and not take the best cut themselves." Upon using the catsup and scanning his plate closely, he said, "the afflictions of the past always remain with us; there are always scars to tell of the battles lost and won; there are always flies who remain over from last Summer and live in the catsup."

MALICE.—The Journal pays too little regard to its own columns, and thinks that assault means victory. There is no doubt much virtue in this principle, but we hope the Journal will not fash its little beard in regard to our affairs. We are doing very well and have no disposition, or time, to discuss the Journal or its new editor. Besides this, we want the people to judge for themselves as to our value and honorable dealing.

The lecture this afternoon of Mr. Wright was a very interesting one, and well attended by members of Alfalfa Grange and outsiders. We regret that we can not, at this time, give a report of the lecture.

Jottings.

Ben Woods, the contractor, speaks a word to our readers to-day, as to what he can do and where to go to find him. He built the Odd Fellow's building and the Episcopal Seminary.

District Court meets next Monday. It will be court day, but Kehew's case of habeas corpus will receive a hearing, and if meritorious, William Kehew will go free, otherwise he will tarry with Lamb yet many days. Since the above was written, William came to time with the necessary coin and is now a free man, and we hope will become a better citizen.

Vacation to-day in the Police Court. Wm. Barlow sold at public auction the effects of B. Pendola.

We noticed Lamb, Norcross, Bates, Morrison, Copeland, Palmer, Weston, Smith, and a great crowd of grangers too numerous to mention, to-day. They were in attendance upon J. A. Wright's lecture on "Co-operation."

Wm. Stopper has just laid a crossing upon Sierra street, at his corner. A mighty man is Bill, and he does not care how many cross his path.

Several bars of bullion were towed west last night. Two converts had their sins washed away last evening at the Baptist Church. The revival still continues.

Some of the ranchers near town are ploughing and putting their farms into shape. Fresh trout and sich at Salisbury & Wetherill's.

Jake Enkle's new bath house is now open for the reception of '49ers. Knock and it shall be opened, bathe and you won't know yourself. There is balm in Gilead and but very few stiff upper lips in Carson.

STAR MARKET.—We take pleasure in calling attention to the advertisement of this new market. It is a neat and attractive looking place, especially to a hungry man, and such an one would have no hesitancy about choice, for Schaeffer keeps on hand nothing but the best, and knows how to serve it up too. By the way, Smith can also be found at the Star, and may be relied upon as a prompt and accommodating young man, who know how to sling steel with the best. Give the new market a call.

KNEW HIS BUSINESS.—A vagrant had just stepped from the cow catcher when he was accosted by an officer who advised him to move on. "What's the matter of you?" said he. "Well, we have several unemployed gents here now and we don't want any more." "Aw, what you givin' us, guess I know my business; got ten days to go on hain't I? You couldn't tell me where a fellow could get a job of book keepin' could you?"

THE SPECIAL ORDER.—A telegram this morning from Assemblyman Everett informed us that the "Compromise" (of Republican pledges) was made the special order for 12 M. in the Assembly. Nobody seems to know what is to carry the bill, and it would be useless to guess. We still hope that the people's commands may have some weight against the desires of foreign stockholders.

ECHOES FROM THE BACK STREET.—Every once in a while we hear a sound from the two-story brick on the back street as of some one beating a small gong, or rattling dried pens in a pool. There is no particular harm in the sound, however much there may be in the motive which dictates it, and the people, having learned its extent, don't mind it. Rattle away Columbus, we have never sought to injure you, nor shall we do so now. We are content that you shall make a noise whenever it suits you, knowing that if you can't amuse, neither can you do harm.

CABBAGE LEAVES AND BLUE GLASS.
The uses of the segregated cabbage leaf are comparatively few and unimportant. It enters into competition with American epic poetry as an envelope for pats of butter and steaks; it is the base of those best Havana cigars in town which toxicological tobacco-nists sell eight for a quarter; it serves to baffle too curious infant inquirers into the question of the origin of man. In medicine it figures—in Burns, if we remember right—as a rude but ready aid to scientific diagnosis. Of late, however, it has aspired to a much more pretentious part, since Mr. Blanc, an eminent physician of Paris, has just published a book on the cabbage cure, showing that the leaves of the ordinary cabbage are for the healing of all nations afflicted with ulcers, sores, boils, rheumatism, gangrene, fever and erysipelas. These numerous uses, in conjunction with the excitement over the discoveries of General Plessanton, convey a whole host of suggestions to the unsentimental mind. It stands to reason that if blue glass be so good and green cabbage leaf so good, the union for curative purposes of glass and cabbage leaf so good, the union for curative purposes of glass and cabbage leaf must result in boundless benefit. All that will remain to be done will be to grow the cabbage under blue glass frames, thus happily combining dual excellence in the single product. In the bright lexicon of eternal youth there will in the future be inscribed but two words. Man shall sit under his blue glass vault, munching his savory messes of the leaves of the brassica, death and disease not daring to molest him.—N. Y. World.

The recent number of the California Patron contains the following instructions, which cannot be too generally circulated for the benefit of butter-makers and consumers: In packing butter in bulk, care should be used in having your firkin well saturated with strong hot brine; this course will prevent the wood from extracting the salt from the butter, and thereby losing its keeping qualities. Before you commence, and while you are packing your butter, put a quart of strong, pure brine in your firkin, then if you fail to pack your butter solid, the space will be filled with brine, instead of air, which soon becomes vitiated and spoils the butter. When the firkin is filled it should be immediately headed up and strong brine poured through the hole at the top to fill up the space between the butter and the head of the firkin.
